Let Every Republican be Sure and attend.

The republicans will have a grand rally at Lappin's hall this evening, and every member of the party in the city should be present. There will be speeches made by Mr. Williams and others, and plans perfected for fighting the battle to-morrow. This is an important matter, and it is hoped that every republican in the city will do all he can to be present. Good music will be a feature of the meeting.

Patch will read a paper on light houses, which will be followed by an introductory study of the works of Oliver Wendell Holmes. (Miss Clara Drake, Miss Lillie Godden and Mr. M. Bostwick will present papers. A general attendance is requested.

—Speaking about a regular jam, there was one at the fair at Apollo hall on Saturday night, it being estimated that over seven hundred people were in attendance. The receipts at the door, at ten cents a head, amounted to over seventy dollars. While the hall was packed full, the very best of order prevailed, and all seemed to enjoy being in close quarters. The Alaska diamond ring was voted to Miss Kittie Enley, she having received 720 votes against 690 cast for Miss Ella Gagen. The fair realized something over one hundred dollars on the ring, besides creating a good deal of amusement for the young people. The fair will be open afternoon and evening until Wednesday night, when it will be closed by a grand ball at the Rifles' armory. The fair is a success, and the managers are happy.

A ROW AT THE JAIL.

A Couple of Young Drunks Attempt to Burn the Jail.

At about one o'clock on Sunday morning, Marshal Hogan, Officers Ed. Smith and John Brown found Mike Barron and Thomas Hayes on the west side in a drunken debauch, and trying to make all the disturbance they possibly could. The pair were arrested, and after much difficulty they were put into a wagon, Marshal Hogan and Smith drawing the vehicle, while Brown held them in the same. In this manner they were taken to the jail and safely lodged in the north part of that structure, which is wholly devoted to drunks. At the jail the boys showed fight, but with the aid of the sheriff and jail officials, they were placed in their quarters without much trouble, and the doors secured for the night. In this portion of the jail are now confined ten prisoners, who are allowed the free use of the corridor, day and night, partly that they can have free access to the pump and water closet. Shortly after the jail officials had retired for the night, a noise was heard in that part of the building, as if tin cups were being thrown about, and a little later, the trunk, Mr. Robinson, was aroused by the alarm of fire. On going to the outer-door of the corridor, he found the jail was full of dense smoke and gas, and the prisoners all huddled up at the entrance door, begging to get out. The trunk immediately called the sheriff, the door was opened, and the prisoners all taken to the upper rooms. On returning the officers found that Barron and Hayes had smashed the large stove, (which was burning a heavy coal fire) all to pieces, excepting the fire-pot. They had broken the pump to pieces, placed the tables, benches, and bedding on the fire pit, and the whole mass was in flames. The eight other prisoners who were quietly in their cells asleep were awakened by the smoke in time to save their lives but not until some of them were most suffocated by smoke and gas. Two or three of the prisoners volunteered, and the fire was soon extinguished, and about 4 o'clock this morning, the prisoners were returned to their quarters. Wanting these two drunken fellows had to thus wantonly destroy the furniture cannot be accounted for, as it would be an impossibility to fire the building from that source, as it is all iron and stone. When Barron and Hayes were taken out of the smoke they seemed as sober and quiet as any of the other prisoners, and were but too anxious to save their lives, but when they were returned to their quarters, Barron again showed light, and the sheriff was compelled to use considerable force to quell him. The pair will probably be called upon to answer a serious charge in the municipal court.

Sheriff Skavlem speaks very highly of the aid rendered by Charles Hill, who volunteered to carry water for the purpose of extinguishing the fire, and for helping to set things in order again. This being the case, his sixty days sentence should be shortened somewhat, if not entirely pardoned.

This morning Barron and Hayes were brought up before Judge Patten to answer the charge of drunken and disorderly conduct. Hayes pleaded guilty and was fined five dollars and costs, and five days in jail, and owing to the fact that Hayes had neglected to pay a fine of one dollar and costs for a like offense committed last September, he was told that he might stay in jail until the fine was paid. Young Barron also pleaded guilty and was fined one dollar and costs, amounting to $5.43, which was paid, this being his first appearance before the court.

This morning the county clerk, Morgan, went to the jail and assessed the damages done to the jail property, which was promptly paid by young Barron's father.

The boys will have to answer to another charge, which will be preferred against them, that of maliciously destroying property in the county jail.

Charles Green, a Half-Witted Crook.

On Saturday morning a half-witted man named Charles Green, who has been stopping at Mr. Warren Helms in the town of Janesville, stole fifty-five dollars from Mr. Helms, and came to this city. It seems that Green is very illiterate, in fact he has no education whatever, and could not read the denomination of the bill he had stolen, as he stopped at a farm house on his way to the city to ascertain the size of the bill, and was informed that it was $50. It is said that there was considerable money in the package from which he took the $55, but he seems to have been content with taking the first one in the package. On arriving in the city he went to the first national bank and had the bill changed for smaller notes, and started on a regular time. He applied at Jackman's livery stables for a horse and buggy, saying he wanted to go to Indian Ford, but on a little hesitation of the proprietor, he finally told Green he could have a horse and buggy for six dollars, thinking the price was so high that he would decline to pay it and he would be rid of him. But not so, Green pulled out his money and offered to pay the price in advance. Mr. Jackman then mistrusted that all was not right and declined to let him have a rig at any price. Green then went to Mr. Davis' stables, where he procured a rig and started as he says, for Jefferson. At about four o'clock Mr. Helms came to the city and informed the officers of the theft, when Sheriff Skavlem sent telegrams to Jefferson, Ft. Atkinson and Milton, for the officers to keep a look out for and arrest Green should he make his appearance there. In the meantime, Green drove back to Mr. Helms', stopped and changed his boots, took his overcoat, and then drove off. Officers Cutts and Taylor, armed with a warrant, were put on the track of Green, arriving in Port Atkinson about eight o'clock, they found the man had already fallen into the hands of the village marshal and jailed for drunkenness. Officer Taylor took him in charge and brought him back to this city, and he is now in safe keeping at the county jail. Officer Cutts brought back the livery outfit of Mr. Davis'. Thus Green's spree was of short duration, but he will undoubtedly be well provided for by the state, and have a good chance to learn the shoe making trade. Although Green has the reputation of being unfortunate, in that he has a weak mind, he is not unknown to the criminal courts, having served a term on charge of adultery, and we believe some other petty offenses, during Mr. Comstock's term of office as sheriff.

Green was arrested while having a high old time at a dance-house at the Port, and was making free use of his money, having succeeded in making way with some twenty or thirty dollars. We believe the officer secured thirty dollars, after visiting the crowd where Green had been, and compelling them to disgorge. He was in very bad company, even for a fool. Green appeared in court this forenoon, and plead guilty to the theft, and further action was postponed until next Monday.

Green offered no excuse for taking the money. He has been in the habit of stopping at Mr. Helms', who lives near the Rock River house, and on Friday night went to bed with one of the boys, and in the morning took the money from his pants pocket which was hung up in the room. Mr. Helms says there were one hundred dollars in bills, and $500 in gold in the same pocket, but only sixty dollars are missing, and Green only admits of taking fifty-five dollars.
